Hello! We are Calle and Sydney, two five-year-old sisters who were rescued as kittens. We look a little like wild cougars, don't we? In fact, we are very gentle and loving, and all we really want out of life is a calm, quiet home with each other and some kind humans. We both love attention, and Sydney likes nothing better than being at our mom's side all day. We are used to being indoors and have lived with other kitties, and we even get along with dogs as long as they don't chase us. Because we have been together all our lives, we really need to find a home together. Our mom is heartbroken at having to give us up, but she is losing her house and needs to find a stable home for us where we can feel safe and loved. We are in San Luis Obispo; call today!
