Hi everybody! We are Lucky and Jinx, two kittens in need of a home. As our names imply, we've had both good and bad luck in our short lives. You see, we ended up on the street (not so lucky) but were taken in by a kind person (lucky!) who has some dogs that don't like cats (they're the jinx -- silly dogs!). We are so adorable, she would have kept us herself if it weren't for the dogs. We're both curious, social, and learning to trust people -- so much so that we now purr at the drop of a hat when petted and have become quite the conversationalists (Jinx more than Lucky). Lucky is the all-black boy kitten with golden eyes, and Jinx is the girl with tuxedo coloring and green-gold eyes. We love to play (of course!), and it would be ideal if we could be adopted together, but it is not mandatory. We are now indoor kittens and settling into a pretty comfortable routine. We let people hold us; we follow them around the house; and we love to wrestle together. Lucky is a laid-back kind of guy, while Jinx is a little more social (and, as we mentioned, quite the talker). We have been checked out by the vet, had our first shots, and are ready for our new homes!
