Hi everybody! My name is Sweetie and, yes, it's because I'm the sweetest, most affectionate cat imaginable. That's what my owner says, anyway. She's had me for seven years and loves the dickens out of me, but unfortunately she is moving to a place where she can't take me. Bummer, huh? But I'm going to try to make the best of it. As I said, I'm told I'm an adorable little girl with huge, expressive green eyes and a lot of personality. I am quite communicative and use looks, head movements, and meows to get my point across. I love to be cuddled, hugged, kissed, petted, brushed, and just hang out with my human companion. I also like laps, cuddling in bed, and even having my belly and toes massaged. I have been an only kitty for these seven years so would probably do best in another home where I can be the only kitty. I'm also declawed, so I will need a safe indoor environment. I'm not a big fan of vacuums and other loud noises but am extremely well behaved and am careful not to climb on tables or counters. I wait patiently for my food, which needs to be wet because I'm not great at chewing. I'm 12 years old, in great shape, and would make a wonderful companion to a mature adult. Hope it's you!
